

Joshua Jewett is a Member of PIERCE / MCCOY and is admitted to practice in Virginia.

Josh's practice is focused exclusively in the area of employment law. For his expertise in this field, Josh has been interviewed for stories featured in CNN Money, WKTR (News Channel 3), and 13NewsNow.com, and some of the matters on which he has worked have been published in the Washington Times, Virginian Pilot, WAVY-TV (News Channel 3), and Virginia Lawyer's Weekly. In December 2018, he was selected as Legal Elite in the area of Labor and Employment by Virginia Business Magazine.

Josh's representative experience in employment law matters spans a broad spectrum of local industries. He has handled numerous matters before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and he has litigated cases in federal court arising under the umbrella of federal employment law statutes. In addition to handling matters in litigation-type settings, over the years Josh has also advised management and decision maker employees facing legally-challenging situations.

Josh resides in Chesapeake with his wife, Shanna, and three small boys. In his free time, he is an avid follower of the Chicago Cubs and enjoys reading about theology and insider accounts of Washington politics. He is a member of New Life Church in Virginia Beach.